

Billy's BootCamp Ranked #3 in Dentsu's Top 10 Hit Products for 2007

NAGOYA, Japan – November 8th, 2007. Dentsu's "Top 10 hit products for the first half of 2007" were announced on October 27th. The number one product category was "large, flat screen TV sets". Number two was "new home video games." Overall, digital-related products dominated the results.

Although this research does not disclose the names of makers and brands, new popular home video game products such as Nintendo Wii and Sony Entertainment's Playstation 3 clearly boosted the popularity of gaming consoles and software and expanded the market.

On the list is the direct marketing product "Billy's BootCamp," a military training styled exercise DVD which ranked number 3.

Although "Flat screen TVs" and "home video games" are released from plural manufacturers, "Billy's BootCamp" positioned itself at a high mark (3rd) by its own, which shows its strong and wide popularity in the Japanese market.

The research was implemented in August as part of Dentsu's bi-monthly consumers' behavior survey. The researched was implemented with about 650 men and women aged around 18 to 69 years old in the Tokyo area.
